

Abstract of the Disclosure

A composition comprising a substrate, an intermediate layer adhered to the substrate, said intermediate layer being capable of receiving a graphic image, and a protective sealant covering the intermediate layer. Also, a method for producing the composition comprising adhering to the substrate an intermediate layer optionally having a graphic image present on the intermediate layer, and covering the intermediate layer and the optional image with a protective sealant. Also, a collection of the component starting materials for producing the composition.

10

15